Shipping

We ship via RAILWAY EXPRESS COLLECT, OR PARCEL POST unless otherwise directed, and GUARANTEE SAFE ARRIVAL. Air shipments are about twice the cost of rail shipments. If your plant is sent Railway Express and ARRIVES DAMAGED, please request inspection from the carrier, and SEND THEIR REPORT TO US. We will replace damaged plants, BUT NEED THIS CARRIER REPORT TO DO SO. If the plant arrived by Parcel Post and is DAMAGED, take the plant and wrapping to your local Post Office, inform us of this, AND WE WILL REPLACE THE PLANT.

If you wish to prepay transportation charges, rate schedules are listed below. Gift plants should obviously be shipped with the transportation charges prepaid, so please refer to the Railway Express rates and include the amount in the check accompanying your order.

Gift shipments will be sent any time of the year to any area requested, but we suggest that when possible, personal orders from colder regions received after the Christmas shipping season be held for shipment until March 15 because of the danger of frost damage in transit.

Shipping Rates

Zone map and accompanying tables are for your convenience in estimating transportation cost if you wish to prepay Railway Express charges, or if you are sending a gift plant, or if shipment is requested by parcel post.

Determine your zone from the map and refer to Railway Express or Parcel Post charts according to pot size or weight of order. It is not necessary to consider postage costs when ordering on a DO-IT-YOURSELF basis (see page 3) as we pay all transportation expenses on DO-IT-YOURSELF orders to U.S.A. and Canada.

STAGES OF CATTLEYA GROWTH FROM SEED POD TO FLOWERING PLANT

HOME GROWING

Finding a Growing Area

THE first step is to find a growing area in your home (or in your glasshouse) and this may be anywhere you have a bright window, removed from drafts, where your plant will get morning and afternoon DIRECT sun. In a window collection, the plants need protection only from burning, midday sun. If you have a floor to ceiling window, you may adjust for the added light by placing your plants back 18 to 36 inches, but KEEP YOUR GROWING AREA BRIGHT. Glasshouse growing will, of course, take shade on the glass to reduce the light intensity to 1,000 to 2,000 foot candles, direct reading, depending upon the season of the year and the latitude. Plants in the home with light from one side such as a window, require far more intense light than those in a glasshouse with light from all sides.

Where extremely cold, freezing nights occur, your orchid should be temporarily set back from the window so they will have a protective air space against the deepfreeze cold of the windowpane.

CYMBIDIUMS also thrive outdoors in moderate climates such as the coastal areas of California, Oregon, Washington, all of Florida, etc. where there are no severe freezing temperatures. CYMBIDIUMS are semi-terrestrials — semi-earth-rooted — and should be planted in $\frac{2}{3}$ humus and $\frac{1}{3}$ soil such as our SUPER SOIL. They should be in a sheltered location protected from severe drying winds. Your CYMBIDIUMS will stand full midday sunshine in midsummer if gradually acclimated to outdoor life by partial shade for a month or two during blistering days.

How to Provide Extra Humidity

ALL potted orchid plants in the growing area may be set in or on pebbles in a tray, saucer, or other container as shown in the two photographs. As many plants are now grown in bark of a rather coarse grade, we suggest placing the pot IN the saucer-type container and then adding the gravel about the pot in the container. For those orchids growing in osmunda (the fibrous roots of the osmunda swamp fern) set the pot ON the gravel-filled tray.

You will note that after watering, the bottom of the pot of the bark-planted orchid is submerged in water; this may last for a day or two before being absorbed back into the pot. Don't overdo, but water as shown in the picture to the left on page 5. For orchids growing in osmunda, the water will be below the bottom of the pot, giving free drainage and affording extra circulation of moist air about the roots. When wet or moist, the pebbles, gravel, or rock chips increase the humidity about the plant. As explained in the paragraph describing watering, the technique will vary, depending on the type of orchid.

You may use any sort of pebbles you wish, we have small 5 lb. packages of white rock chips for 25c or black and red chips for 50c. However, any pebbles obtainable in your locality will suffice for the humidity factor, but you may wish to select the more decorative type. Pebbles not only increase the humidity, but by hiding the water drainings, the growing area is made so much more attractive.

Temperature Requirements

ORCHIDS are not at all the delicate plants most people think they are. Within loose bounds they will adapt readily to conditions offered by any modern home. Usually, for growing purposes, we group them into three temperature classes:

THE MEDIUM TYPES are represented by the CATTLEYAS, EPIDENDRUMS, mottled leaf CYPRIPEDIUMS, and such lesser kinds as ONCIDIUMS, and others. The ideal minimum is 62 degrees nights, with high 70's days. Considerable OCCASIONAL deviations will have no effect since most orchid plants adapt themselves so readily to temperature conditions, just as they do in nature.

THE COOL TYPES are represented by the ODONTOGLOSSUM GRANDE, CYMBIDIUMS, and plain leaf CYPRIPEDIUMS, among others, and should be kept five degrees cooler than the Medium Types.

THE WARMER TYPES are represented by the PHALAENOPSIS, VANDAS, and DENDROBIUMS; they should be kept five degrees warmer than the Medium Types. Vandas are suitable as houseplants only in a BRIGHT sunny home growing area or in a glasshouse or conservatory-like area that affords bright light from all sides.

When to Water

NOT all orchids have the same water or moisture requirements. They may be grouped into four categories as far as watering techniques are concerned.

CATTLEYAS, LAELIOCATTLEYAS, BRASSOLAELOCATTLEYAS, ONCIDIUMS, ODONTOGLOSSUMS, are epiphytes or air-rooted types, with built in water tanks called pseudobulbs. They like a certain amount of drying out between waterings, with lots of moist air circulating about their epiphytic roots. Water thoroughly every five days or so depending on the time of year. In the heat of midsummer, water may be needed every three or four days; in the short, cool days of winter stretch the time out between waterings to 10 or even 14 days. This group you can treat with studied neglect—they have their built-in reservoirs.

When these types of orchids are planted in bark, more frequent watering is necessary. For in-the-home growing, permit the pots to stand in the water that drains through the pot into the gravel until the pot and bark have absorbed back the surplus water. Do not water again until at least three days after all water has been absorbed back into the pot from the tray beneath. These bark-planted orchids should have a thorough leaching or soaking in a tub of water three times a year. The coarser the bark, the more frequently you must water. With this group if you must err, err on the dry side. However, to caution again—coarse bark will stand a great deal of water.

PHALAENOPSIS and VANDAS, while also epiphytic, do not have built-in water tanks for water storage. Their requirements are about the same as any ordinary house plant, but

How to Feed

MOST orchids suggested today for the home are potted in osmunda or fir bark such as our own WONDER-BARK. How much and how often you feed is determined by which type of potting material is used. For feeding orchid plants, use any of the new instant, totally water soluble

When to Repot

WHEN the plant outgrows the pot by extending over the edge, usually about every two years, it is time to repot. Most plants today are potted in WONDERBARK (fir bark) rather than the traditional osmunda, because the bark mixtures are as simple to use as ordinary soil potting mix-

Above All, Enjoy Your Plants In Flower at Home

WHEN your plant is in bloom, you may remove it to any part of the house best suited as a background for its beauty. Leave the pebbles and gravel behind in the growing area and try one of the attractive cover pots advertised on page twenty of the catalog. Or perhaps you would prefer an expandable bamboo sleeve, illustrated on page twenty. This is your big moment—make the most of it. Then when the blooms fade, clip back just the flower they require more frequent waterings than orchids with pseudobulbs. Water enough to keep the potting material DAMP at all times, but not DRIPPING.

CYPRIPEDIUMS are yet another type as far as watering requirements are concerned. These are known as semi-terrestrials, or terrestrials, which means earth-rooted, and they need an abundance of moisture at the roots to do well. Unlike the other two groups, they do not mind wet feet, and the bottom of the pot may stand in water for some time after watering.

CYMBIDIUMS also like an abundance of moisture but they must have good drainage and plentiful root aeration, even when planted in the outdoor garden.

In watering all types, just pour water into the top of the pot. Much will seem to drain through the drainage hole in the bottom, but a sufficient amount is retained by the porous, absorbent potting mixture. In determining when to water, the best practical test is to feel the potting compound. Not just the surface, but stick your fingers into it. It will feel harsh and dry to the touch if it needs water. If still damp, your fingers will note the moisture.

Some find it easier and faster to water by dunking. Dunking is submerging the pot (NOT the whole plant) to allow water to run over the rim, lifting to drain. Pots may remain submerged for from two or three minutes to as much as fifteen minutes. This is a particularly good technique for those orchids planted in the coarser grades of bark or those whose bark has become excessively dried out. When feeding, (see following section) WONDER-LIZER should be incorporated in the dunking water.

ORCHID feeds, such as our instant WONDER-LIZER (see page 23) or Formula 312 or Instant Vigoro. Just add the instant fertilizer to the water used for regular watering and apply twice a month for orchids planted in bark and once a month for those planted in osmunda.

tures, and do not require special techniques of osmunda. Should you wish to perform this chore yourself, remove the plants from the pot, cutting off the old, withered backbulb and pot like any other house plant. For detailed instructions, request our POTTING INSTRUCTIONS leaflet.

stem itself without cutting leaves or bulbs, and return the plant to the growing area for the next year's blooms to develop.

Orchids are free from plant pests and almost never will they need spraying of any sort. If you think they may, write, describing symptoms, and your present care. We are glad to give this information FREE OF CHARGE at any time.

FLOWERING CATTLEYS

These plants are shipped bud in sheath when ordered during their blooming season. Our prices are f.o.b. the nursery and are based on the size and quality of blooms; secondly, on the number of leads, and to some extent on the size of the pot. Various combinations of these factors result in different prices for the same pot size.

Any of these plants priced at $15.00 or less can be shipped under our special "DO-IT-YOURSELF" offer (See page 3) out of pot, POSTAGE FREE at quite a saving to you if ordered out of their blooming season. Please specify "DO-IT-YOURSELF" when ordering in this economical way.

Prices shown opposite a pot size indicate price range, i.e. $5.00 - $20.00 with intermediate prices available in the following amounts: $6.00, $7.50, $8.50, $10.00, $12.00, $15.00, $18.00, $20.00, and in multiples of $5.00 thereafter.

It will save time in filling orders if you state a price range acceptable for each variety and whether or not we may substitute a similar plant.

BONUS PAGE

One Plant FREE For Every Two You Purchase From This Page

FOR every two plants ordered from the listing below, we will select another hybrid Cattleya, Cypripedium or Cymbidium from our "Acres of Orchids" equal in value to the average price of the two purchased. All these hybrid Cattleyas, Cypripediums and Cymbidiums will make better-than-average additions to any collection. We are making this offer only to clear out small lot varieties, to reduce the cost of inventory and since the supply of plants is limited for each listing, it would be wise to send us several alternate choices. These plants should be shipped "bud in sheath" but this may not be possible because of the small lots or flowering season.

Bonus Page Plants Are Sold Under the following Conditions:

We reserve the right of substitution.

We guarantee to send a similar type plant of equal or better quality than the two selected, as the Bonus plant or as a substitution, but all free plants will be colored as the supply of whites is limited.

All plants in a single shipment must go to the same address.

Regular quantity discounts do not apply.

BONUS PAGE PLANTS valued at $15.00 or less, except Cymbidiums, qualify for our special POSTAGE-FREE "DO IT-YOURSELF" OFFER when shipped out of pot (see page 3). Please specify this when ordering.

Plants are in six- and seven-inch pots. Price range, i.e. $5.00 - $20.00, given for each plant indicates quality and size; you may order any value between the minimum and maximum in the following price progression: $5.00, $6.00, $7.50, $8.50, $10.00, $12.00, $15.00, $18.00, $20.00 and multiples of $5.00 thereafter.

FOR those of you who are searching for the "different" orchid, one or more of these plants is a "must." We have gathered this fine collection of unique orchids and strong growing, long lasting, prolific, showy types of species from all over the world, and have held them in our ranges until re-established. These delightful plants are shipped in pots and when ordered in season, in bud. When ordered out of season and out of pot, the special DO-IT-YOURSELF terms apply. (See page 3.)

We particularly draw your attention to the intergeneric crosses as well as the novel crosses that bring together the influences of diverse areas into a progeny entirely new to the world.

The number after the description indicates flower size in inches, disregarding the varieties having long pendent sepals.

The name of the country is where the plant originated and the season is the time of blooming.

Cool, average or warm denotes the relative temperature requirements of the orchid in the glasshouse or in the home as explained on page 4 under Temperature Requirements.

Intermediate prices between the low and the top price quoted for each plant are $7.50, $8.50, $10.00, $12.00, $15.00, $18.00, and $20.00.

CYPRIPEDIUMS

CYPRIPEDIUMS can be termed the "Orchid of the Sophisticate" for truly those uninitiated to orchids cannot imagine that this will become one of their favorite orchids when their taste becomes more discriminating. Cypripediums are most attractive orchid plants for the home and the long lasting flowers make them ideal to grow at home. Their flowering habit of peaking in early winter has always made them most desirable for the cut flower market. These are hybrids of the quality the commercial grower will want—floriferous—large—well-shaped—with the price ranges indicating the quality and size of the plants. Intermediate plant prices within the ranges given are $6.00, $7.50, $8.50, $10.00, $12.00, $15.00, $18.00, $20.00, and multiples of $5.00 thereafter.

AFTER DARK LIGHTING PREVENTS BLOOMING!!

For normal blooming, many orchids must have the usual seasonal changes, short winter days, and long summer days which, of course, are upset when under electric light at night.

Certain CATTLEYAS are like your pet canary in that they do not like bright light after dark such as is given off by your reading lamp. Where the most desirable area for growing orchids happens to be in the living room, library, or reading room which is frequented by the family after dinner, some people protect their plants at night from the bright electric lights with black muslin.

PLEASE DO NOT BE CONFUSED. LIGHT INTENSITY HAS NO EFFECT ON PLANTS IN FULL BLOOM, AND ONCE IN FLOWER, THEY MAY BE PLACED ANYWHERE FOR MAXIMUM ENJOYMENT. Many CATTLEYA orchid plants will not develop blooms, however, if kept in continuous intense light for over 14 hours (long summer day length). This may be misunderstood because the blooming of some plants such as daisies is increased and hastened by the use of day lengthening artificial electric light. At "Acres of Orchids" we delay flowering with supplementary artificial evening light, turning the lights on at dark and off approximately at 11:00 P.M.

WONDER-LIZER

"Has Everything"

WONDER-LIZER is the instant, totally water soluble plant food developed by soil scientists for "Acres of Orchids" after years of research. Formulated for liquid feeding of orchids, particularly now that so many are being grown in bark (WONDERBARK), WONDER-LIZER is also excellent for other house plants, gardens, lawns, and vegetables.

WONDER-LIZER'S unique food balance, including iron chelate and phosphates, gives the most amazingly effective results and makes it ideal for use wherever liquid feeding can be used. WONDER-LIZER has coloring, which is so useful as an indicator when the food is in water, and also the degree of concentration of the fertilizer. WONDER-LIZER is economical, a 1/2 teaspoon in a gallon of water (1/2 lb. to 100 gals.) every other watering is recommended for orchids, 1 teaspoon per gallon (1 lb. to 100 gals.) for other plants. COMPLETE INSTRUCTIONS ARE ON EACH PACKAGE.

Valuable gems from our vast collection of award winning orchid seedlings.

"An eye to the future" has been the key note of our very extensive hybridizing program. Great strides are being made in many fields of hybridizing in all categories of agricultural plant improvement programs. Only comparatively recently has hybridizing become such a popular and eminently important part in the improvement of all types of farm crops and products.

Genetics was only declared a science in 1900. Today there is a great scramble by the universities and agriculture stations throughout the the world, as well as individuals, to improve the "strain" or even create new ones, whether corn, carnations, citrus or even our forest trees.

It is rather amazing, therefore, that the advancement over the jungle orchid has been left almost entirely to the individuals fascinated by the marvelous improvement that could be obtained through continuous exacting hybridizing. These orchid fanciers, whether amateurs or commercial houses, have made crosses between genera, species and varieties, thus building from the best parents of the past, improved creations new to the world.

Hybridizers have introduced into this somewhat complicated field the use of parent plants blessed with chromosomes of over average in number. Their progeny bear larger flowers with more substance, longer keeping qualities, purer color and give wonderful conformation to the already beautiful hybrids.

We are now seeking plants of the increased chromosome count (tetraploids), as we have hunted potential parent plants throughout the world for years to bring the most desirable plants obtainable to "Acres of Orchids" to be the parents of future generations of superior orchids. When our tetraploids are crossed with the normal orchid, the resulting triploid hybrid is the most spectacular of all orchids, winning awards "galore." Unfortunately, these beauties are seldom suitable as parents—comparatively they are sterile.

The many awards won by our seedlings prove that this costly quest for the finest of parents is appreciated by you, our orchid customers from all over the world.

Also, we create novelties that are "conversation pieces" by crossing the extremes of the orchid world, actually bringing into union orchids from jungles on opposite sides of the earth, fascinating are these to look upon.

We invite you to visit "Acres of Orchids" to see these wonders for yourself. To my personal elation, thousands do as our guests, with no obligation to us whatsoever.
